Some baked-cherry, blood-orange and asphalt character on the nose. Full-bodied with lots of savory fruit. Dense and full with bountiful, fine-grained tannin. Good length.

Drinkable now, but better in 2021.

The new wood in this certainly gives it cigar-box character with chocolate, too. It's medium-bodied with berries and soft tannins. It's fun, if a little obvious.

Drink now.

A rich, ripe, dark-fruited cabernet with hint of dark stones, iodine and cedary oak. The palate has a juicy heart of blueberry and cassis flavors with crisp, lively tannin to close.

Drink or hold.
